

Jed Hefner Biography

Mr. Hefner is an innovative technology servant leader with 13+ years of success directing strategic software projects throughout the development lifecycle and tackling complex organizational challenges head on. Successful track record of driving delivery of technology solutions, collaborating with high-performance teams, and defining large enterprises business solutions at increasing levels of scope, scale, and complexity.

Outside of work, Mr. Hefner loves spending time with his wife, Melanie, and three children: Abigail, Lillian, and Aaron. Many of his favorite activities include family walks and bike rides in his neighborhood, Rimkus park, and the Huebner Onion natural area, as well as swimming and building DIY projects on Melanie's "honey-do" list. He is a highly competitive board game player, having twice advanced to the US National semi-finals for Settlers of Catan. Mr. Hefner served his nation for 8 years in the US Marine Corps as an infantry machine gunner and spent 7 years serving his community in the demanding and highly scrutinized work of football officiating. He served as the Recruiting Coordinator for 2 years with the San Antonio Football Chapter of the Texas Association of Sports Officials.

In his free time, Mr. Hefner is passionate about bringing financial literacy education to peers and professionals in a wide range of settings. Equipping and enabling others with the financial knowledge and skills to eliminate obstacles, identify opportunities, and ultimately retire with dignity is where Mr. Hefner focuses his efforts to use his time and talents to serve his fellow man. Mr. Hefner hopes to contribute his talents to foster individual liberty, economic growth, and neighborhood revitalization in this role serving on your city council.

